

ABSTRACT

A queue manager monitors status of a server queue in a network server and status of a device queue in a peripheral device at the same time. A user interface displays the status of jobs in the server queue and device queue on the same display and allows a user to 10   manipulate any of the jobs on either queue using the same user interface.

Patent Application